Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

claim 17 is
3. ~~Claims 17 & 18~~ are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claims are non-functional descriptive material recorded on recording medium, and therefore nonstatutory. "Nonfunctional descriptive material" includes but not limited to music, literary works and a compilation or mere arrangement of data. When nonfunctional descriptive material is recorded on some computer-readable medium, in a computer or an electromagnetic carrier signal, it is not statutory since no requisite functionality is present to satisfy the practical application requirement. Merely claiming nonfunctional descriptive material, i.e., abstract ideas, stored in a computer-readable medium, in a computer, on an electromagnetic carrier signal does not make the claim statutory. (see ANNEX IV of 35 U.S.C 101 Interim guidelines of 3/2/06, enclosed).

Allowable Subject Matter

- 18-20
4. Claims ~~18-20~~ are allowable over the prior art of record.
5. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

claims 18-19

Regarding ~~claim 19~~, the invention relates to a digital video system (apparatus and method) capable of real-time recording, and an information recording medium (recordable optical disc) used in this system.

The closest reference Nakai et al (US 5,999,698) disclose a digital video disk or digital versatile disk (DVD disk) capable of recording image and audio data on a signal recording medium and reproducing them in synchronism with each other, and a reproduction system therefor.

However, Nakai et al fail to explicitly disclose a method for recording information on an information recording medium, the information medium further comprising a management area separate from the data area and configured to store control information, wherein the control information includes AV file information having movie video object information corresponding to one of the video objects, the movie video information includes audio gap information, the movie video object information includes movie video object general information, the movie video object general information includes AO_GAP_LOC information configured to indicate the location of the audio gap, and a video object corresponding to the temporary erased state results from a division of an original video object including the audio/video data, a start position of the division is set as time information.

Regarding claim 20, the invention relates to a digital video system (apparatus and method) capable of real-time recording, and an information recording medium (recordable optical disc) used in this system.

The closest reference Nakai et al (US 5,999,698) disclose a digital video disk or digital versatile disk (DVD disk) capable of recording image and audio data on a signal recording medium and reproducing them in synchronism with each other, and a reproduction system therefor.

However, Nakai et al fail to explicitly disclose a method of reproducing information from an information recording medium, where the information recording medium comprises a management area separate from the data area and configured to store control information, wherein the control information includes AV file information having movie video object information corresponding to one of the video objects, the movie video information includes audio gap information, the movie video object information includes movie video object general information, the movie video object general information includes AO_GAP_LOC information configured to indicate the location of the audio gap, and a video object corresponding to the temporary erased state results from a division of an original video object including the audio/video data, a start position of the division is set as time information.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Ozaki et al (US 5,991,798) teach a technique for reading data from a WWW (World Wide Web) server or a package medium such as a CD-ROM or a DVD-ROM and displaying the read data by using HTML (hyper Text Markup Language).

Heo (US 6,741,796) teaches a digital versatile disk (DVD), and an apparatus and method for playing the DVD, including an audio DVD and an apparatus and method for playing the same.

Katayama (US 5,902,115) teaches a karaoke recording medium, a method and apparatus for reproducing karaoke data from a karaoke recording medium, and a method and apparatus for recording karaoke data on a recording medium.
